

Construction projects, even when running smoothly and on schedule, inherently involve numerous parties with varying objectives that result in an array of contracts and complex legal issues to manage throughout the life of a project.

In a high-growth area like Arizona, leveraging reputable and knowledgeable legal counsel for building and development is critical to a project's overall success.

Our construction team has successfully represented owners, builders, developers, general contractors, subcontractors, architects, engineers and insurers in commercial and residential construction litigation, from multimillion-dollar construction defect disputes to Registrar of Contractors claims.

We help clients solve problems in numerous areas, including:

- Construction defect litigation
- Dispute resolution
- Risk management
- Insurance coverage analysis
- Construction-related contracts
- Surety and fidelity bond defense and liens

Our talented construction attorneys are leaders in the field, helping to promote best practices in construction litigation and contributing to the State Bar's Arizona Construction Practice Manual. State and national organizations and associations frequently call on our members to present educational seminars on defense of construction defect cases and related case.
