

MEDICAL SERVICE PROVIDERS

To provide high-quality and cost-effective health care, medical service providers need legal partners who understand today's competitive economic environment and the ever-changing regulatory atmosphere in which they operate. Our health care defense group is dedicated to providing proactive legal strategies that address clients' professional and business needs, while minimizing their risk of litigation.

With decades of experience in health care law, the JSH Medical Liability and Health Care Group is committed to helping medical providers navigate legal challenges faced in every aspect of health care delivery and management. Our team includes attorneys who have handled all aspects of medical liability and health care law, as well as seven full-time legal nurse consultants who apply their medical knowledge and background to each file.

JSH's Medical Liability and Health Care Group draw on their vast experience to retain experts, conduct appropriate discovery and prepare necessary dispositive motions so that we can aggressively defend our clients at trial and in arbitration. In addition, we represent healthcare providers and physicians before the State's Medical Board in actions taken against their licenses.
