Recent Case Success:

Obtained unanimous defense verdict for client, GEICO Automobile Insurance, in Newton v. GEICO.

Plaintiffs insured their 2007 Chrysler Pacifica with Defendant GEICO. Plaintiff was driving the Pacifica when the engine seized. The vehicle was found with only one quart of oil, which meant around 4 and ½ quarts of oil was gone. Plaintiff alleged the oil level had been checked a few days earlier and the level and color of oil on the dip stick were full and good. Plaintiff suspected that the oil had been drained by her ex-husband, an allegedly vengeful auto mechanic. The vehicle showed no signs of leaking or burning oil, and Plaintiffs allegedly discovered an oil stain on their driveway. As a result, Plaintiffs filed a vandalism claim with GEICO.

On behalf of their client, GEICO, JSH attorneys Sandy Gerber and Josh Snell investigated the claim and discovered that the Pacifica had been driven 8,582 miles since its last oil change. They ultimately determined that there was no coverage due to a failure by Plaintiff to properly maintain the vehicle. After a 6-day trial, the jury was out less than 30 minutes before returning a unanimous defense verdict.
